

Forêt

This section contains the first six panels of the exhibition, focusing on the general characteristics and biodiversity of the Mediterranean forest. It includes geographical information, a precipitation graph, and detailed illustrations of local flora and fauna.

Feu

This section contains the next six panels, which focus specifically on the phenomenon of fires. It provides statistical data on fire frequency, explains the primary causes (such as lightning and human activities), and discusses the impact of climate change on the fire regime.

Protection

This final section contains the last six panels, which are dedicated to forest protection and fire prevention. It provides practical advice and outlines the responsibilities of different stakeholders, including fire brigades and forest owners.

